Dear Mr. Kienzler,

Please submit both my version and yours to the court. It is my opinion that the revisions I made are in closer alignment to the court's pronouncements on Tuesday.

Mr. Callington,

I have run a "compare" of your revised document against ours and the result is attached.

Here is our position on your changes:

1. If we reach agreement on the substance of the order, we would agree to add the word "Interim" to the title of the document.
2. Paragraph 4 – We do not agree to your edit. This issue has already been decided by the Court.
3. Paragraph 6 – We do not agree to your edits. Again, this issue has already been decided by the Court, and beyond that, we do not understand the basis for the edits.

If you want to discuss Paragraph 6, I will make myself available to do so at 2:45 CT. If you do not wish to get on the phone with me, please state that in response to this email. In that instance, I will submit both UL's original document and your redlined version of the document to the Court's staff this afternoon.

Rick

Mr. Callington,

Consistent with the Court's order yesterday during the telephone conference, attached please find a revised Proposed Order that UL wishes to submit to the Court for entry. Please review and let me know whether you agree that the order addresses the issues discussed by the Court. We are required to submit this order by 5:00 PM tomorrow, so please let me know your position as soon as you can.

Thank you.
